GLEE CONCERT.

The Glee concert as given by the Presbyterian church choir on Friday night may be pronounced a decided success, although the audience was not so large as its merits deserved.

All the pieces on the programme were well rendered, but special mention may be made of the selection from Haydn's Creation. "The Heavens are telling;" the hallelujah chorus from the "Messiah," and "Inflamatus," a selection from Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The choir was accompanied in "The Heavens are telling," by the organ, piano and the violin, an great precision and ability was displayed on the part of the accompanists; the "Inflamatus" was conducted through by Mr. Randall and was also accompanied by the three instruments.

The solo was sung by Miss Cookson whose ability as a vocalist is as well known to the people of Edmonton that it is needless for the BULLETIN to comment. During the singing of the hallelujah chorus the audience was requested to stand as this has been the practice since the first time the piece was rendered. The choir show careful training and deserve great praise for the manner in which they rendered these selections, and great credit is due to the choir master, Mr. Randall.

The following is the programme which was rendered, Rev. D. G. McQueen, B. A., acting as chairman: Organ voluntary, selected, A. McCauley; selection—Creation, "The Heavens are telling;" the choir; piano solo, "Regret and Hope" A. McCauley; glee, "Lady Rise," the choir; vocal solo, "The Old Gravedigger," A. G. QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

The agreement between the United States secretary of agriculture and the Canadian minister of agriculture relating to the quarantine of animals between the United States and Canada provides that:

1. Each country shall adopt the veterinary certificates of the other.

2. That the chief of the bureau of animal industry and the chief inspector of stock for Canada will mutually inform one another of contagious animal diseases in either country, or of disease in animals imported from either country.

3. A 90 day quarantine shall be enforced by both countries upon all cattle imported from Europe or from any country in which contagious pleuro-pneumonia is known to exist; a fifteen day quarantine shall be enforced upon all ruminants and swine imported from countries in which foot and mouth disease exists, within six months, and upon all swine imported from other countries.

Breeding cattle admitted into this country must be accompanied by a certificate that they have been subjected to the tuberculin test, and found free from tuberculosis; otherwise they shall be detained in quarantine one week and subjected to the tuberculin test. All cattle found affected with tuberculosis must be returned to the country whence shipped or slaughtered without compensation. Cattle for feeding or for stocking ranches must be accompanied by a certificate showing that they are free from any contagious disease, and that (excepting tuberculosis) no such disease exists in the district whence they came.

Cattle in transit will be admitted at any port of the United States and Canada in bond, or in bond for exportation by sea from any Canadian port, or from Portland, Boston and New York in the United States.

No animal covered by this memorandum may be placed on board cars till the litter from previous loads has been removed and the car thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Inspectors may cause such work to be done at the expense of the railway company, or prohibit the use of the cars until it is done.

Sheep may be admitted subject to inspection at port of entry, and accompanied by official certificate that sheep scab has not existed in the district where they have been fed within six months. If the disease exists in any of them they may be returned or slaughtered. Sheep may be admitted for transit in bond from one port to another in either country, and if for slaughter they may be admitted without inspection. Subject to inspection at the shipping port they may be admitted into either country for transit to any shipping port in Canada for export by sea, or to the United States for export from Portland, Boston and New York.

Swine may be admitted without inspection for slaughter in bonded cars to bonded slaughter houses, or when forming part of settlers' effects and accompanied by a certificate that swine plague or hog cholera has not existed within six months in the district whence they came. Lacking such certificate they must be inspected at the port of entry, and if diseased will be slaughtered without compensation.

Horses may be admitted in bond from one port to another in either country without inspection at the shipping port. Horses may be admitted for racing, show or breeding purposes on inspection at port of entry. Horses may be admitted for temporary stay, teaming or pleasure, driving at points along the frontier for a period not exceeding one week, at any port of entry, upon permit of the customs officer. Should he observe any evidence of disease he will detain the animals and report to the district inspector, who will decide whether the animals may be admitted; and horses used for driving or riding to or from points in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories or British Columbia, on business connected with stock raising or mining, and horses belonging to the Indian tribes may be admitted without inspection, but must report to custom officers both going and coming. Under all other circumstances horses must be inspected at the port of entry.

POLITICS IN QUEBEC.

Political affairs in the province of Quebec will absorb public interest largely until the fight at the polls, probably next May. The episcopal circular issued by Archbishop Beguine denounces the school settlement and declares that in doing so he is following the direction of the Holy See. The bishops are said to be contemplating the issue of a collective mandate against this settlement, and prohibiting the faithful from voting for any candidate who approves of it, but there seems to be some hitch in regard to this fulmination, and it may be that the Quebec bishops will be better advised before they do that which will certainly invite a rebuke within the church, because the liberals of the province of Quebec have not assisted to put Mr. Laurier in power in order to turn him out at the behest of the tortois working through their willing dupes, the Quebec bishops. But this is not the only phase of the situation there. The Castor faction of which Messrs. Angers, Taillon, Ross, Pelletier and Chapais are prominent members, want to run the provincial elections on the strength of the mandat placing L'Ecole under the ban on the ground of the school settlement. The more progressive wing of the party is opposed to this, believing that it will bring upon their heads even a greater disaster than that which befell on June 23rd. The latter wing is represented by La Presse of Montreal, which has opposed the proposition of the Castors, and now it is stated by the latter that these articles were written by Mr. Journe, ex-M. P., and Mr. Danseur, postmaster of Montreal, and inspired by Lieutenant-Governor Chapleau. It is well known that Mr. Danseur is Mr. Chapleau's right hand man when that eminent French-Canadian leader is in politics, and you can't put an eminent French-Canadian leader, out of politics by appointing him a representative of the crown in Spencerwood—Victoria Province.

MACLEOD GAZETTE AND THE QUARANTINE REMOVED.EDITOR BULLETIN.

SIR: The removal of the cattle quarantine has awakened considerable interest. Like all other questions of importance there are two sides to this one, which is clearly demonstrated by the versatile editor of the MacLeod Gazette, where he predicts disaster to Southern Alberta in a recent editorial from which I take the following:

"In the decision to remove the quarantine which has been for many years maintained against American cattle entering Canada, the Dominion government have undertaken a very serious responsibility. The responsibility which they have undertaken is the danger of the complete destruction of the range cattle industry in Alberta through the unrestrained introduction of American cattle, and the consequent rapid exhaustion of feed.

"The danger is not imaginary, but very real. If the quarantine is simply removed, and no regulations made restricting the introduction of American cattle to our ranges, then, as we pointed out before, what far seeing stockmen have long feared will almost surely come to pass, and Southern Alberta in a few years be deprived of the industry which at present makes it the most wealthy and prosperous portion of Canada."

When the quarantine was first enforced Dr. McEachren stated, when interviewed at Winnipeg, that "the regulations are being enforced in the interests of the cattle business of Canada." To this statement the MacLeod Gazette editorially commented as follows: "In this connection we would point out that, in their anxiety concerning the cattle business of Canada, other interests of equal importance and requiring the same fostering care, are lost sight of. While fully alive to the importance of the cattle interest we are not prepared to admit that every other interest should be dwarfed and ruined by it. Alberta is an example of it. If the quarantine is of such vital importance to the cattle-men, which it certainly is not, it is at the same time killing the country, and killing the development of the industry it is supposed to foster. A regulation which, at the worst, can only effect one industry in a small degree, is bound, by all the laws of nature, to give way for the benefit of the whole."

We have above, both sides of this subject presented and advocated. I hope the editor of the Gazette will sum up his own arguments, and state to his readers which side he is on.

Yours, &c.,
RANCHER.

MacLeod, 23rd Jan. '97.

EDUCATIONAL FADS.

DEAR SIR: It has been the habit of the present generation, and of many generations before us, to use the right hand in writing with a natural slant in that direction, with no ill effects in common with many other fads and fancies, of very doubtful value, some faddist has prevailed upon the council of public instruction to prohibit in any school in the Northwest Territories, our present system of writing; it must now be upright or vertical. With many others, probably a large majority, I will not allow my child to be taught writing on this new fangled system; consequently the child has to be kept away from school during the writing lessons and taught at home.

The council of public instruction seem to forget that they are the servants of the people. Their duty is to set and keep the machinery in motion, for the education of the children; not to dictate to parents whether their children shall write right hand, left hand, slanting or upright; neither should it be for a department of education to say, that Mr. Blank's arithmetic must be used and none other; with the consequence that a kind of monopoly is established for Mr. Blank's book, and we have to pay probably double the price for that particular arithmetic, that an equally good one, by Mr. Darr, might be purchased for; and so on all through the chapter.

The council of public instruction are usurping powers, that rightly belong to the various communities, and, it is about time that a radical change was made in that department.

I remain
Yours truly,
T. W. SHAW.

Midnapore, Alta., Jan. 29, 1897.

TOURNAMENT VS. COUNTRY.

The principle of protection was adopted in Canada for the express purpose of creating and fostering factories—in other words for the building of towns. This was to be done obviously at the expense of the farmers. No one will dispute the statement. It was not disputed in 1878. But the farmers were led to believe that they would be compensated,—that the creation of towns would mean the creation of a home market for their produce,—in short that by and by the towns would support the country. This promised result has woefully failed to materialize. It was bound to fail. In Canada the towns necessarily depend upon the country for support, and will so depend as long as we live, and a good many generations after. Let the country get rich, and as a result there will grow up prosperous towns. The cities are the spires of the national edifice. The structure can stand without the spire; but the spire cannot stand without the structure. Weaken the foundation and the whole building is endangered. Agriculture is the foundation of prosperity in Canada. Every obstacle put in the way of the agriculturalist is an obstacle put in the way of national progress. It is impossible either theoretically or practically to assist the growth of the tree by injuring its roots. Canadian protectionists refused to acknowledge that principle. The result was that although in ten years millions were expended upon immigration, the 1890 census showed that the population had not increased to the extent of the natural increase in ten years. We had lost more of our own people than we had gained by immigration. The theory that towns may be built up to support the country has proved a dismal practical failure in Canada.

BEFORE the white settlement we catered most successfully for the Indians, as the history of this country and the evidence of its aboriginal inhabitants will testify. Since then our business has changed and developed, and we are now in a position to deal as successfully with the new trade and supply its wants.

RAILWAY RATES.

The following is the communication received by Isaac Cowie from Robert Kerr, traffic manager of the C. P. R., in connection with the freight rates to the Kootenay and main line points in British Columbia, on butter, eggs, cheese, etc., hay and live stock.

"Advertising to our various discussions and correspondence that has passed between us recently concerning the question of rates on the products of the Edmonton district to the Kootenay and main line points in British Columbia, on butter, eggs, cheese, etc., hay and live stock.

"I am sure that these new rates will be very satisfactory to the producers of your district and should enable them to secure and hold the trade of the Kootenay district.

"I have been in Montreal since the beginning of December, in close consultation with our executive, and have only just returned, this being the result of the very full consideration our executive have given to the subject, and is an earnest of the deep interest both the president and vice-president take in the progress and settlement of your district.

"We have long felt the difficulties of having an independent company operating between us and the Kootenay consumers, and no doubt you are aware that early in December this company succeeded in obtaining possession of the Columbia & Kootenay Navigation Company's fleet, thereby doing away with that interest standing in between the producer in the Edmonton district and the consumer in the Kootenay, and enabled this Company to make these very favorable rates.

"I, therefore, congratulate you and the people generally of your district in the consummation of arrangements that will now enable you to work with the utmost freedom and placing you in a position to meet the products of any other section of this country, or Washington or Oregon, in the markets of the Kootenay."

"LITTLE BEAR."

"Little Bear" is the family name of a stalwart Indian chief who registered yesterdays at the Leland. He is a big, swarthy aborigine of the Cree tribe, and hails from Battle River, near Calgary, N. W. T. "Little Bear" is on his way to Ottawa to interview the new government on matters vital to his people. Accompanying him, as interpreter, is the Methodist missionary of his district, Rev. John McDougall.

To a Nor'Wester reporter who interviewed "Little Bear" in his apartments at the Leland house-sheaving, the Indian dignitary talked about himself and his tribe. He says he is forty-three years old, has but one fond little wife and is the father of three robust young braves.

"Little Bear" and the two or three hundred of his people who call him "chief," went to live in the United States shortly after the Northwest rebellion. Last summer they returned to the Territories and pitched their wigwams at Battle River. Since then their relations with the Dominion government have not been satisfactory to "Little Bear." He thinks his people have been slighted by Premier Laurier in the hurry and fuss of weightier matters. He wants a clear-cut agreement made with him as to treaty-payments and governmental assistance in establishing his tribe in the Territories.

"Little Bear" and his adherents have not yet surrendered to the Christian faith. They cling to the weird and mystic rites of their fathers and worship the Great Spirit. Once a year they participate in a thirteenth dance, which lasts two nights and three days. During this devotional exercise they abstain from meat and drink of all kinds whatsoever. In his boyhood "Little Bear" was "the difficult one." He became chief by hereditary right, his father who reigned before him being called "Big Bear." He wears three eagle's feathers in his cap, which are supposed by his followers to have magical power with the Great Spirit.

Rev. John McDougall, who accompanies "Little Bear," has broken the record among Canadian missionaries, this being his thirty-seventh year in the work. He had many exciting adventures during the rebellion, when he was active as a scout for the volunteers and conducted the troops from Calgary to Edmonton, at a critical stage of the outbreak.

"Little Bear" and Rev. Mr. McDougall will continue their Journey east to-day.

PACIFIC TRADE.

Miner: Rat Portage: Sir Roderick Cameron, of whom mention was made in a recent issue of the Miner, has informed us that his firm has contracted for all the flour manufactured over their regular trade. They were to get 100,000 barrels in the four months following December first last. Fifty cars each containing 200 barrels left Keewatin mills during December, and seventy-five cars are expected to be shipped this month. Sir Roderick's firm, R. W. Cameron, & Co., have offices in London, Eng., New York and Sydney, Australia. They are large shippers of merchandise, both by their own vessels and by others. They have contracted for all the available space for carrying flour on the Canadian Pacific railway steamships sailing to Australia to forward the flour contracted for with the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. This Australian market is a grand thing for the wheat growers of our western prairie. It gives them better prices, and keeps the flour mills running full capacity. The Keewatin mill is being enlarged to make room for machinery to increase its capacity to 3,000 barrels of flour per day. The increase is being made to meet the increased demand for Keewatin flour, which has actually girdled the globe, east and west shipments meeting in India.

ANGUS RIDGE.

The olio in the Battle river school will be held on Friday evening, March 5th, beginning at 7 o'clock. A good programme is being prepared and a full house is expected. No doubt this section will endeavor to make it a success. The ladies will furnish refreshments. The admission will be 10 cents and 20 cents, and the proceeds to be applied towards paying for a clock, chair and dictionary, which was purchased for the school by the teacher.

At the election of trustees John McRae was the new trustee appointed and Mr. Wilson was re-appointed secretary.

Miss Ethel Thirsk had her toes slightly frozen on Friday the 29th.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Watterson took place on Tuesday the 2nd inst., at 2 p.m. There was a large attendance. Deceased was highly respected in this neighborhood. Bros. Rix and Watterson spoke at the house and referred to her being prepared for the great change. A child one month old survived her. The pall bearers were Messrs. J. Shantz, R. Watterson, J. Angus, A. Ellis. "Friend after friend departs."

The Difference BETWEEN Old and Present TIMES.

It is mentioned in the Bible that old Jacob had made for his son Joseph a Silk Suit, of which his brothers became jealous.

Now-a-days it is different. Suppose a man should tell you what a big reduction he got on his outfit of Clothing which he had purchased for Xmas. from Sigler & Cristall, you need not get jealous, but call in and we will satisfy you also, at

COMBINED BRIDGE.

On Saturday evening last a combined meeting of the town council and the directors of the Edmonton District Railway Co., was held in the town hall. Letters addressed to F. Oliver, M. P., by Hon. Mr. Tarte and the deputy minister of public works, Mr. Gobell, were read with reference to the construction of the bridge. Mr. Tarte explained that owing to his having been laid up he had been unable to send his promised reply in time to reach Edmonton on Feb. 1st. He then asked if the town would be willing to give $25,000 towards the construction of a combined railway and traffic bridge, and stated that he was not without hope of being able to have railway communication extended even as far as St. Albert. Mr. Gobell's letter was more lengthy, but that of Mr. Tarte's contained the gist of the matter. After free discussion in which the business men who were not of the council or the directorate, took part. The chairman, Mr. McDougall, called the combined meeting to order and on a motion by Mr. Gariepy seconded by Mr. Laroche, it was decided to write Mr. Tarte that the $25,000 would be paid by the town on the supposition that the arrangement would be carried out on the lines already discussed with them, viz: The contemporaneous extension of the railway into Edmonton with the construction of the combined railway and traffic bridge, and said railway bridge not be monopolized by any one railroad, but held as an inducement for any other road or roads to cross at Edmonton.

CROW'S NEST COAL.

In its New Year edition the Fort Steele Prospector thus deals with what it terms the coal fields of East Kootenay. The fields in this district, in what is known as the Crow's Nest Pass, lie in a southeasterly direction from Fort Steele; the distance to the nearest available coal is about 60 miles. These coal fields in the near future will have a world-wide reputation both on account of the quality and quantity to be extracted, and are without doubt the best coal fields in America undeveloped. The western outcrop of the field is on the side of a mountain in the valley of Elk river, "one of the largest tributaries of the Kootenay river," on the eastern side the coal seams have been traced a distance of 50 miles, with surface exposures made at intervals showing the seams and walls. The lowest known seam in some 1,500 feet above the drainage level of the valley, and is 30 feet in thickness; 100 feet higher there is another seam 30 feet thick; then comes a seam 15 feet thick; then a small 3 foot one; then a 7 foot one; then another 30 foot seam and above these are five more workable seams from 4 to 10 feet in thickness, 11 seams in all, making a total of 148 feet in thickness of coal exposed. These seams dip at an angle of 30 to 40 degrees, the upper seams having the least dip. There are three large creeks cutting this coal field, and the seams are exposed on the banks of those creeks, and openings can be made to mine the coal without much preliminary expense the cuts made by the creeks being more valuable than so many tunnels to prospect the coal because there is room to operate the mine on both sides of the creek, and the mines are proved to be permanent without any cost, in fact, nature did the prospecting. In addition to the coal on Elk river, further east on Martin's creek and other tributaries of Mitchell creek "which is the fork of Elk river," there is another large body of coal above the Elk river field but a smaller area, a large amount of the field having been carried away by natural causes through the different ages since the coal was formed. The aggregate of the depth of the seams of coal in the upper basin is somewhat more than on Elk river, so that if a shaft be sunk through the whole field there would be found 200 feet of coal in workable seams. It would be hard to find another field of coal with so much to the acre, so easy and cheap to work. The eastern outcrop of this field is near the summit of the Rocky Mountains, the average distance from the western crop being 10 miles, showing a coal field 40 miles north and south, by 10 miles east and west, with an area exceeding 250,000 acres. The coals in this field differ owing, no doubt, to the different ages of the coal, their being three different qualities; the lowest seams are anthracite in their nature, while the upper seams are the bituminous coals; in between, both above and below the bituminous coals are a number of seams of coal different from anything heretofore known; it is similar to cannel coal, but superior to any cannel coal known. These coals have been analyzed and treated by different parties, among them Prof. Hoffman, government assayer at Ottawa for the geological department, and the results as shown in the departmental reports prove that these coals would lose nothing by comparing them with the best coals of the same variety in Pennsylvania.
